SUBJECT:
CNG Price Increase

Owning a vehicle that runs on CNG isn't a simple thing :

Availability of fueling stations
Waiting lines at the "pumps "
and lack of range

The cheaper fuel comes with a price

The time looking for a fueling stations and grand inconvenience if It's not working
I had my car towed once because of this reason.
I'm not the only one who had to deal with low pressure issues.

Infraestructure isn't good enough and equipment i I assume is over 10 years old .

The price per gallon is a fallacy given the pressure goes up and down depending temp.

I found owning CNG relatively convenient

Cost of maintenance of CNG is quite expensive ... Replacing a filter $400 replacing tanks when expired $ 1500 and regulator $1200

The increase in price will make it not worth it for me

This measure goes against the common direction we all seem to agree toward adopting an alternative fuel .

I expect you to take action on this
Sincerely

Josh A Chocho
