

From: Lyle McMillan <mcstyle1@yahoo.com>
To: <mlivingston@utah.gov>
Date: 6/1/2007 4:22 PM
Subject: Opposition to Proposed Rules to Eliminate the Public's Voice in Rate Cases

Please rethink your attempt to eliminate the ratepayer's voice in utility regulation. Novel idea: try giving equal say and consideration to the people who both pay your salary and the rates you regulate. I believe in doing what's right, fair, and just. Could you please give it a try, too?

- * ratepayers voices must be heard in utility regulation;
- * especially because the Division of Public Utilities and Committee of Consumer Services aren't representing consumers' interests effectively;
- * if the Commission is going to change its rules, the amendments should facilitate the participation of individual customers and groups, not impede them;
- * if the Commission decides each participating individual or group must be represented by an attorney, either the Commission or the utility should pay those costs

Sincerely,
 The McMillan Family

Building a website is a piece of cake.
 Yahoo! Small Business gives you all the tools to get online.

RECEIVED
 2007 JUN -1 P 4 24
 DIVISION OF PUBLIC UTILITIES
 0421301