 I would like to know how to express to the commission the total confusion and great amount of wasted time and money that would occur with an overlay of telephone area codes. I have enjoyed having my area code, 801, for the past 60 plus years, but if you consider the time involved in consideration of which area code to dial with each number, then the time involved in the keying in of the extra digits, multiplied by the hundreds, or even thousands of calls that are made by each of us in each of the thousands of offices up and down the Wasatch front, (let alone, from our own homes), it would be unreal how much that method would cost ... and just think of the employers, paying for that extra cost! Please do not even consider an overlay. I will take my area code change, if everyone around me still has the same code, and I can dial a seven-digit code to reach them. Thanks for your consideration
