Mr. Merz,

I see no problem with starting the hearing on 12 September as you request and planning on it lasting just one day. Given Qwest's agreement with this change, we'll go ahead and issue a notice accordingly.

Judge Goodwill, the hearing in the above-referenced matter is presently scheduled to begin on September 11. Because of a witness scheduling issue, Eschelon requests that the hearing be moved back to September 12. The last two arbitration hearings between these parties, in Washington and Oregon, were able to be completed in a single day and it would be our anticipation that that would be the case in Utah as well.

I have discussed this matter with Qwest's counsel, Mr. Topp, and he indicated that Qwest is agreeable to this change in the schedule.
